STRICT DECISION.

What Would They Do With a Hawaiian Lottery Agency?

London, Dec. 22.—A decision has just been handed down in the case of the Queen against Pearson's Weekthe United States. Out the Minisly, one of the papers conducting a "missing word" competition, which was stopped by the courts because the scheme was an infringement of the Gaming Act. When the decision was made, the proprietors had on hand the money sent in with guesses of the one missing word. The sum amounted to $120,000, and the question arose as to what disposition should be made of it. The addresses of the persons who had not guessed the proper word had been destroyed, so it was impossible to return the money, and the rule of the Court prevented its distribution among those who had guessed the missing word. The Judges have ordered that Pearson's Weekly pay the money into court, and probably it will revert to the Crown.

FRIDAY, JAN. 13, 1893.

The Advertiser says this morning if the late Cabinet had had the pluck to remove the Marshal they would be in to-day. The Cabinet had pluck enough but didn't think either necessary or right, but if they had been as unserupulously unjust and personally partisan as the morning sheet, they would probably have been fired out sooner even than they were. It is chiefly owing to their having listened too much to that journal and its vindictive clique that they are in the position of being ex-Ministers to-day.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

This afternoon the Legislature was informed that it had pleased Her Majesty to appoint the following named Ministry:

Hon. Samuel Parker, Minister of Foreign Affairs:

Mr. John F. Colburn, Minister of the Interior; Hon. W. H. Cornwell, Minister of

Finance: Hon. A. P. Peterson, Attorney-

The new Ministry has not an easy row to hoe, but, on the other hand, it has not a long road to go before the session of 1894, when the financial circumstances of the kingdom, the Ministry, if it survived that it is hoped, will have improved, and, it is further to be desired, the people will have elected a Legislature a little more rational in its dealings with Ministries than the one now on the eve of prorogation.

FALL OF THE MINISTRY.

The present Legislature, whose regular session is hastening to a close, has made a record for voting out Ministers which, it is to be hoped, will neither be made a standard nor be beaten. Yesterday's upset was the fourth of the session. To this is to be added one reconstruction of Cabinet when Mr. Whiting resigned from the Parker Cabinet. This record is not to be compared with that of the session of 1886, when three different sets of Ministers met the House, because then the Ministry lived by the royal instead of the legislative favor.

The Cabinet change now on is not per lb. per ft. a great political event. It is simply the latest move in a game of tit for .2240 lbs. to ton tat, or the return of the see-saw plank to about the position it was in at the opening of the session. Viewed in a party light it is only a return of chickens belonging to certain Reowners' fence. These politicians, by an alliance with the faction against whose ascendancy they had allied themselves, at the general election, on this island with the National Reform party, and with the assistance of National Reformers distressed with ministerial bees in their bonnets, managed to overthrow the per lb. Parker Ministry.. The pretext for Washers, Ass't Sizes per pkg. this action—as it was only a pretext -was that the Ministry had no policy. As if afraid that it would have again to meet the painful neessity of voting another Ministry out on the same score, the House constructed an apology for a financial policy of retrenchment, which it later took great pains to destroy by a process of saving at the spigot while pulling out the bunghole plug.

The next Cabinet to face the music was that headed by Mr. E. C. Macfarlane. It had a policy, but now the majority, of different construction to the previous one, did not want a policy. At least it refused to hear the policy that was almost ready for presentation. Therefore the new opposition had to take up new lines. It went partly on a "great constitutional principle," which was that the majority of the Legislature should appoint the Cabinet, although the Constitution says differently, and in spite of the known certainty that there was not a majority in the Legislature which as a homogeneous party could agree on and is owned by Miguel Andisco. any Cabinet. For the rest it traded on the bald lie that the Ministry was inimical to the United States and therefore dangerous, because this country's supreme hope for betterment of its financial condition lay in enlarged commercial relations with try went without rhyme or reason. Then came the Cornwell Cabinet, which was unceremoniously ousted on sight, on general principles. This was succeeded, after a long delay, by the Cabinet, nominally, of Mr. G. N. Wilcox, but actually constructed by Mr. Cecil Brown. At the appearance of this Cabinet it pleased the Reform politicians aforesaid to hold that it had been appointed in accordance with the majority "principle" for which they had stood. Their Liberal colleagues in the previous opposition, however, could not discover where the "principle" came in, and always held themselves in readiness for an opportunity of asserting the "principle" by ejecting the Cabinet. A first attempt at this end failed, but the second was successful. The partisans of the three Ministries previously dealt roughly with, aided by the handful of "principle"-weighted Liberals, mustered the requisite twenty-five votes, and so ends the G. N. Wilcox Cabinet.

As regards capacity and good standing, the Cabinet thus retired was fairly acceptable to the community. Where it was weak was that it represented only one element straight Reform combination according to individual antecedents, and there has never been a straight Reform majority available to sustain a Ministry in this Legislature. The so-called "principle" was therefore ignored in the Cabinet's existence. In different acts, however, the Cabinet displayed independence of its party, thus gaining in some quarters considerable of popularity. One fatal action, early in its career, was on the other hand taken as a straw to show which way the wind was office of Superintendent of Public Works of a man whose previous career in the seme position was one of the chief grievances against the Thurston administration which contributed to the National Reform landslide on Oahu in 1890. From this act it was apprehended that event, would install its own party as "victors" with free play among the spoils." There is no doubt that the feeling so created had a large part to do with the latest overturn.

The lottery question had something to do with the Ministry's defeat, but chiefly as a handle by some of the opposition. 'It was available as a weapon of offense owing to the facts (1) that the Ministry made it a distinct item of its formally presented policy to oppose the lottery, and (2) that a majority of the House carried the lottery bill in spite of the ministerial policy. It did not re- days when I felt great relief. I soon quire superior political craft then, for the opponents of the Government to appeal to the lottery against the Ministry in order to secure the requisite number of votes. Had the Ministers, however, appealed to the House on the lottery issue whenever | August Flower does the work. The its policy was rejected thereon, the beauty of the medicine is, that you ease might and probably would have can stop the use of it without any bad been different. The full strength of the lottery support was 23 votes, two less than required to oust the Ministry. When the resolution of want of confidence was under discussion, the lottery question was only raised incidentally. Opponents of both the Ministry and the lottery were not obliged to see it as the direct issue. They were no more required to defend the Ministry on that particular issue, than were the leading spirits in the assault on any preceding Cabinet to identify themselves with the many absurd side issues raised by their uncongenial associates in the movement. It would have been otherwise if the Ministry had accepted the passage of the lottery bill as a rejection of their policy, and challenged a vote of want of onfidence on that issue then and there. Then it would have been imossible for any of those who had voted against the lottery to evade the issue. They would in all honor be obliged to support the Ministry as against the lottery. As it is, the retiring Ministry cannot claim the honor of having sacrificed itself in defense of the good name of the country on the lottery question. It has simply gone down before a conjunction of factions the same as its predecessors, its own party having begun the game of partisan reprisals which has been the chief characteristic of this longest session in the history of the Hawaiian Legislature.

Big Meteor in Mexico.

City of Mexico, Dec. 15, 1892.-The largest and most remarkable aerolite ever seen in Mexico has been brought to this city from Jiminez, in the State of Chihuahua. The stone or metal weighs 40,000 pounds

The aerolite fell about four months ago about forty miles from Jiminez. It struck a cliff in its descent, and in its course down the mountain side plowed a deep furrow in the earth and rock, revealing a rich vein of silver. The claim was immediately aken by a practical mining man and s being worked with great profit. The cost of transporting the aerolite to this city was $900. It has awakened great interest in scientific circles throughout the Republic.

For pains in the chest there nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. It will produce a counter irritation without blistering, and is not so disagreeable as mustard; in fact is much superior to any plaster on account of its pain-relieving qualities. If used in time it will prevent pneumonia. 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Only Comparative Poverty.

"There is very little genuine poverty in America," said Judge A. W. Wilder, now at the Lindell. "Our poverty is rather comparative than real. We have men with incomes of $100,000 a year and more. Beside these colossal fortunes the man who supports a family on $9 a week appears poor indeed. And yet a man may support a family very comfortably on $9 a week if he will set properly about it. They may have snug and cheerful rooms, comfortable clothing and plenty of healthy food The great trouble in this country that men acquire luxurious habits before they are able to indulge them. of the majority that had cleared the The man who earns but $1.50 a day there's no reason now for way for its appointment. His wife and children must dress as expensively as those of men with twice his income, and the result is that instead of be ing happy and independent, he is ever between the devil of pride and the deep sea of debt.
